The district of Riverside school had a box social last Friday night which netted $18.25 for school equipment. The Lima school, District 9, held the second of a series of socials last night. COUNCIL DEMANDS JUSTICE FOR CITY

equalization and was the only one of the nine members to vote against the overthrow of the true value totals.

Taylor Takes Floor.
"As county supervisor of assessments, I am neutral—I am not working for Janesville, Beloit or any other district—I am judge of the whole," Mr. Taylor told the council. "But I must admit that Janesville has been discriminated against and forced to carry the load of state and county taxes. The only redress left is an appeal to the state. I would advise the same for any other assessment district if I felt it had been discriminated against."

"The inequality of the county board's equalization figures is too great," continued Mr. Taylor. "They can't be made to stand up. If such things could be carried on without any recourse for the injured districts, we'd be having riots in two or three years to see who'd pay the taxes."

Mr. Taylor sounded words of praise for the painstaking and honest efforts of Frank L. Smith, Janesville's assessor, in arriving at this city's assessment. He is nearer correct than any other assessor in the county with the exception possibly of Milton and Orfordville villages, he said.

Facts of Injustice.
Among the facts brought out by Mr. Richardson and Mr. Taylor in their lucid and concise explanation of the situation were:

The action of the county board makes Janesville pay state and county taxes on the basis of 107 percent of true value, while the townships pay only on an 81 percent basis, villages 93 percent and Beloit, 90 percent.

The Sauk County tractor plant assessment is $5,130,000 while the total assessment of Beloit's three large plants is only $5,300,000.

The Sauk County tractor plant assessment is $5,130,000 while the total assessment of Beloit's three large plants is only $5,300,000.

Janesville and Beloit pay 21 percent each of state and county levies. Present figures require 25.49 percent from Janesville and only 21.40 from Beloit.

A re-equalization will raise Beloit's industrial plants up to a point they have never approached before.

Mayor Promises Action.
"The council and citizens may rest assured that this thing will be carried through," said Mayor T. E. Welsh at the close of the meeting. "I am not going to allow it to get cold."

All Janesville members of the county board attended the council session were: Chairman E. D. McGowan, George Woodruff, J. A. Denning, J. Walker, W. J. Jones, L. A. Marchand and Mr. Richardson.

Members of the council present were: L. J. Cronin, J. J. Delim, D. Horn, Jan C. Harlow, Louis Korstel, Walter Helms, C. J. Smith, George Trayer and E. F. Kelly.

GOOD PROGRESS IS MADE ON ORATORIO

Best Talent in City Is Groomed For "Messiah" Dec. 20-21.

Rehearsal for the chorus parts of the "Messiah" at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon showed that the oratorio will be one of the most beautiful and finely finished musical events heard here in several years. The martial, solemn and majestic music of which the production is composed, often reaches dramatic heights which require the best trained voices and the best of directing to perfect.

Prof. L. J. Stringer, Milton college, who is doing the directing and work for both the Janesville and Milton choruses, has worked hard with the Janesville chorus of 30 people and has not perfected some of the most intricate parts. Sudden releases and attacks in some of the parts are exceedingly hard to secure in such a large chorus and a great deal of labor must be spent in working out this detail and in the expression of certain parts where it is necessary to bring out the real meaning of the passage. Although the local chorus is smaller than had been expected, officials in charge having hoped to secure at least 150, those who are now rehearsing compose the best of the city. Practically all of them have had musical experience and training so that many of the technicalities that must be explained to a younger chorus, could be omitted. Only those who have formerly appeared in the "Messiah" are now desired for the chorus, as work has progressed so far that a beginner could not enter at this time, according to Dr. Thomas J. Snodgrass, who is one of the leaders working for the success of the oratorio. Dates for the presentation have been changed. The Janesville chorus will go to Milton Tuesday night, Dec. 20, where it will be presented at the college hall. The Milton chorus of more than 150 voices will come here the following night when the oratorio will be presented to Janesville people. The total number appearing will be at least 250, it was stated Monday.

The committee on arrangements, which will have charge of securing the hall, taking charge of the night of the production here, and arrange all the smaller details, is composed of David Drummord, chairman, Ervin Sartell and Dr. S. F. Richards. H. E. Bliss and Joseph Steiner make up the publicity and advertising committee, while the Chamber of Commerce, represented by Leo Atwood, will take charge of transportation. The arrangements committee represents the Kiwanis club and the advertising committee the Rotary club.

Practice was held early Sunday, as many appeared in the choir at the Bliss Memorial services later. Only two rehearsals remain before the dates of presentation, but soloists are working on their parts and even those in the chorus who have copies are doing some practice between Sundays.

TAX REVISION IS URGED BY MELLON

Adjustment of Rates on Business Profits and Estate Income Advocated.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Further revision of the tax laws, with a reduction of the maximum increase in surtax rates to 20 or 25 per cent and adjustment of the rates on business profits and estate income, is suggested by Secretary Mellon in his first annual report, transmitted to congress.

The treasury secretary also announced that the treasury's policy with respect to deferment of the soldiers' bonus is unchanged, and urged prompt payment of the $10,000,000,000 of foreign loans as "one of the outstanding needs of the present economic situation."

Mr. Mellon also informs congress that the maturity within the next six months of $6,750,000,000 of the short dated debt "makes it imperative that the government pursue a policy of the utmost economy and avoid now under takings that would throw additional burdens on the treasury and embarrass the funding operations" with respect to the floating debt.

Stresses Revenue Revision.

Revenue revision is the subject on which Mr. Mellon says the changes in the tax law voted by congress "give substantial relief to business and industry and restore in some measure the freedom of business transactions, but our system of taxation still requires careful consideration."

"It is of vital importance," Mr. Mellon declares, "that adjustment be made in our scheme of taxation whereby the burden will not fall unduly on any particular class, and at the same time will not seriously interfere with productive industry and general prosperity."

Mr. Mellon informs congress that the amount of revenue involved in the suggested reduction of rates, "is not nearly as great as is generally supposed."

Reiterating that the effect of high surtax rates is to keep new capital out of productive enterprise and to prevent normal business transactions, with the result that natural industrial development is retarded, Mr. Mellon adds:

"The idea seems to be prevalent that in taxing large incomes, only the person receiving the income, and who is to pay the tax, is really concerned. This is a mistake. For, whatever the government takes in the way of tax out of any income, which would otherwise be saved and invested, and thereby become a part of the capital and of the wealth of the nation, affects not so much the individual from whom it is taken as it does the whole people of the country, in the direct loss of productive capital."

Reducing Rates, Plan.

Discussing the proposed adjustment of the tax on business profits, Mr. Mellon suggests no specific rates, but calls attention that the repeal of the excess profits tax made necessary an increase of 2 1/2 per cent in the corporate income tax and that this, with the capital stock, makes the total levy on corporations approximately 15 per cent.

BOOTLEGGERS' AUTO TRAIN, CAPTURED for trial on charges of violation of the liquor laws. The liquor seized from the car is stored in the county jail. The large touring car, which these two men were driving in, said to be worth about $5,000. Ball of $1,000 each was furnished for the two men and they were taken to Green county.

Ownership Investigated.

Under the prohibition laws the men can be made to answer to charges in both counties. Their car bore a Wisconsin license, No. 256-735, issued for a small car. Walter Tech, Milwaukee, investigation is being made in to the ownership of the large car which were seized at Monroe, and which carried Illinois license plates.

The whiskey was wrapped in Cincinnati newspapers.

The strategy of the officers saved bloodshed.

One car which went into the ditch, was loaded with full quart bottles of high grade blended whiskey. The total number was estimated at 250, worth approximately $15 a quart. Another car carried no whiskey.

Shoulder to be believed the outfit was from Chicago, and was headed for Dubuque. The men are believed to have been in Monroe Sunday night, although it is not known whether or not any whiskey was sold there.

Selection by the bootleggers of Route 20 from Monroe to Clarno, the condition of which led to the discovery of the liquor, was a surprise to the sheriff Monday.

"There's more whiskey out here on the road than you can see in your life before, and you'll never see so much again," was the message. "You'd better bring guns. The fellows took tough as trip. They're west of Chicago, towards and just east of the Whitehead cheese factory."

On the strength of the anonymous message, Duester and Mitchell buckled on guns. Mr. Anonymous was correct about the location. For the officers found three cars. Men were working in a vain attempt to get one of the cars out of the mud.

As the men sighted the sheriff's car, two of them jumped into the foremost car and "stepped on the gas." Duester and Mitchell drove their car in between the two cars on the road, sprang out and took a stand with guns drawn.

"You're under arrest," was the command and the men's hands went up. One of the officers covered them while the other relieved the three men of two loaded revolvers. In one car was found a sawed off shotgun,

HEAVING UP THE JANESVILLE TAXES.
Janesville will pay the highest tax rate in years. Of course everybody suspected that would be true but hoped that the blow might be softened a little. It was plain when the city council went on record in favor of the extravagant budget and increased expense that the taxpayers would pay, pay, pay.

It is not very pleasant to have such a state of affairs when conditions are as they are and liable to be no better for the man dependent on labor during the winter. These are the prices we pay for a city government that goes by favor and complaint.

There is no possible excuse for the immense budget of the city—none except that some paying contractor needs a job. We want the paving but we do not want it at the price of an imposition on the taxpayers.

Taxation is occupying the attention of several counties in the state. Many of them, purely agricultural have found the burden of taxation intolerably large. The line of least resistance has been adopted and there has been a refusal to accept the state datum that the highway state aid tax be increased. But it is to be noticed that in nearly all these counties the administrative expense is not cut. County counties lowered all the salaries of officials, raised in war time. Careless, happy-go-lucky methods seem to prevail.
In Janesville there was no attempt to pare down, or if that effort was made it was ineffective as to be unnoticed.

We pay the price of a city government that lacks fixed responsibility, that is "wasteful," that never coordinates and never will until there is a managerial head.

Governor Len Small is being tried. So is the state of Illinois.

THE MOST POPULAR EDITORIAL EVER WRITTEN

It deserves printing every year. The Gazette printed it last year and presents it again without an apology and it will be printed next Christmas time. God willing. It is printed because it breathes something so much of the kindness of soul and the tenderness that we fail to express always in the daily grind, that it should never be forgotten.
It was not written by Charles A. Dana, to whom it has been credited generally for 24 years. Its author was editorial contributor to the Sun, Frank P. Church, who for more than 30 years was a member of the Sun staff and has long since passed to his reward. But somewhere he will be greeted with that same gladness he carried to little eight-year old Virginia O'Hanlon, who wrote and said that her friends had told her there was no Santa Claus and wanted the Sun to tell her the truth.
Here is what she read in "Is there a Santa Claus?"

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong when they tell you that there is not a Santa Claus.
They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe, except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible to their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's are little. In this great universe of ours, man is a mere insect, not his intellect as compared to the intelligence of the universe. He is measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus."
"He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give your life its highest beauty and joy.

"And how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no child-like faith, then, no poetry, no romance, no make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyments, except in sense and sight.

"The eternal light, with which childhood fills the world, would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus: You might as well not believe in fairies. You might get your papa to hire men to watch, in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus coming down. What would be the proof? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there isn't any Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unsuspected in the world.

"You may hear about the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside. There is a well covering the unseen world which no strongest men which have ever lived could tear apart.

"Only faith, poetry, love, romance can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory beyond. Is it real? Oh, Virginia, in all of this world there is nothing else so real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus—thank God! He lives and lives for ever!

"A thousand years from now he will continue to make glad the hearts of childhood!"

KILLERS AT LARGE

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—One evening about eight three women sat chattering in the parlor of a house in Springfield, Massachusetts, when a man entered the room by a rear window and, without any preliminaries, demanded money. He wore a black slouch hat, a black handkerchief over the lower part of his face and a revolver in a holster at his side.

The terrified women screamed. He told them to be quiet or he would kill them. One of them screamed again; whereupon he shot her through the heart, killing her instantly. Then, after some moments of hesitation, he turned and, without having taken any booty, he went away.

This astonishing crime led, after a long search, to the arrest of one Bertram G. Spencer, who confessed not only to this murder but also to a long series of mysterious burglaries which had terrified Springfield. They were most peculiarly burglaries. They were usually early in the evening when detection would seem almost certain. In some cases nothing was taken and in most cases only articles of little or no value.

Spencer was tried, and after a long wrangle among specialists as to whether he was sane, he was condemned to death and electrocuted.

One man at least was not satisfied with his trial. He is L. Vernon Briggs, a well known specialist in mental disease. He was convinced, by what he had seen of Spencer and what he had heard at the trial, that Spencer was a defective.
He further believed that Spencer had been a defective all of his life, that any competent specialist in mental disease could have diagnosed him as a man who was dangerous at large. Furthermore, he realized that this country must contain many thousands of men like Spencer who are defective, who are a menace to other persons and to themselves, and yet are allowed to run at large.

In order to prove his case, Dr. Briggs made an elaborate study of the life history of Spencer and also of those of two other convicted murderers, of Colozog, the man who murdered President Mc-Kinley, and of one Richeson. These three studies he has embodied in a book entitled "The Manner of Man That Kills." This book, and especially the part of it that deals with Spencer, is an absolutely convincing demonstration of the doctor's theory that most men who kill are defective men, that if studied by specialists when in school, they could nearly all be recognized as defective and handled in such a way that they would not be a menace to society and to themselves, and that a large part of the enormous expense of our courts, police systems, and penal institutions, could thus be saved in addition to the great saving in life and property.

Dr. Briggs shows that Spencer was defective in intelligence from childhood, that almost all of his immediate relations on both sides showed some signs of mental defect, many of them having been downward insane. He further shows that Spencer was long known to many of his daily associates as a "queer" man, and that it was well recognized by them that he was subject to outbreaks of temper almost without cause in which he could not control himself. In one of these outbreaks he almost killed a boy with a hammer.

Yet this man Spencer, who was recognized by ordinary laymen as a dangerous man, and could have been identified by scientists at any time after his seventh year as a potential murderer, was not only allowed to run at large, but to marry and procreate the kind which had come down to him through the generations. Had he not been convicted of the murder which ended his career, he would almost certainly have been set free to murder again and to continue propagating his kind.
And the United States of America is full of men like Spencer.

Having demonstrated what manner of man it is, who kills, and how easy it generally is to identify the murderer before he murders, Dr. Briggs proposes to give some of our expensive police forces a system of leaving detectives at large to be the payers. He shows that in Massachusetts, $16,000-000 or forty per cent of the state budget in 1921 was spent for the care of "defective, dependent, and delinquent classes."

In addition to this, it must be remembered that the criminal courts are engaged almost wholly in the business of trying defectives, putting them in jail and turning them loose again. The trial of Spencer cost the state of Massachusetts between $25,000 and $36,000, according to Dr. Briggs.

Remember, too, that our expensive police forces are engaged chiefly in keeping track of these defectives, capturing them only to be released again, playing an endless and futile game of hide and seek with madmen.

This enormous burden which the taxpayer carries, and which is comparable only with the burden of international argument, is in a sense the least of the evils of our system of handling crime. The worst evil of it is that we are breeding defectives steadily, so that the problem grows all the time, and the whole nation is vitiated by defective strains everywhere, as the examination of men for the draft convincingly showed.

What is needed to remedy this situation is well known to students of the situation, and has been carried to a certain extent in some states and its practicability proved. Each state should have an institution which would not be known either as a hospital or as a prison, but as a school, to which all defectives would be sent. They would there be studied by the most competent specialists, and every effort would be made to fit each of these defectives for a useful life in society. Some of them, of course, would never graduate from the school, and most of them presumably would not be allowed to propagate, but each of them would be given as large a show in the normal life of the world as he was capable of bearing.

To this institution would be sent, not only the defectives caught in the net of the courts, who are now either legally killed or else turned loose to do the worst, but also the children identified as defectives in the schools. This indeed is the most important part of the plan. For the defective or psychopathic child, taken in hand early and re-suced from unfavorable environmental influences may be converted into a normal citizen.

One thing which stands in the way of establishing such institutions is the lack of competent specialists—a lack which will doubtless gradually be met by education. But the great need is for a public opinion that realizes the need for such institutions.

With wages at 50 cents an hour, and working 8 hours a day every man, woman and child in Janesville will have to toil ten days to pay the expenses of running the city government.

Owing to the fact that bootlegging has the support of "our best people," a large number of thieves and other crooks have taken it up as a safer and more lucrative profession.

lern, the Holland cut-up.

Blaine apparently does not believe in the 23rd mighty little solace in his staff.

Christmas action should make a place for the promise of an economical administration in

We ought to be thankful that Germany is not conference. He'd probably evade it anyway.

Let's have all the engineering work done as rapidly as possible so as to put the road program through with a bang in 1923.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE COMMON JOYS.
When everything is said and done And living the master of us all, Has fixed us so we cannot run Or race or romp or throw a ball; When high ambition turns away For stronger hearts and hands than ours We'll leave that to the boys and say How lovely are the common flowers.

When age comes on and we have ceased To struggle for some distant goal, When from the battle we're released,
No more to heed the drums that roll, We'll no doubt smile at those who fight For fortune and the nod of kings, And feel how much of real delight There is in all the common things.

We'll come to know and understand How vain were all the pomp and show, Which trusted us long years ago,
Will mean far more than gold and fame;
The love of old friends, tried and true, Will long outlast the world's acclaim And we shall live them over, too.

Oh, when our hot ambition cools
And we have fought our noblest fight, We'll learn what's taught in schools Just what we've learned in life's delight, And we'll find that memory clings Not to the glories we have won,
But to the simple common things Which fill the years for every one.

Who's Who Today

CLARENCE H. MACKAY

None of the sons of the rich who inherited money has tried harder than Clarence H. Mackay to show that he is willing to do his share of the world's labor.

It has been a sort of obsession with him that because he did not have to work, he wouldn't. So he has tackled the business left him by his father, John W. Mackay, his father, who was one of the rugged Forty-nine type, ready to swing head-first into any problem.
He left many millions.

Clarence H. who is now forty-seven, succeeded to the presidency of the Commercial Cable, the Postal Tel-graph Company and the many allied lines. He has given his personal attention to the companies, and steadily worked to improve them.
His father's long and arduous struggle with the Wilson administration when the government sought to pool the Postal and Western Union on terms that he did not regard as just, brought out all of the inherited fighting spirit that belongs to the Mackay name.

Mr. Mackay was married to Katherine Alexander Duer, from whom he was divorced, and she married Dr. Joseph A. Blake, the famous Tumulty in Wrong Role.

The improved this week the chapters as they have appeared in the New York Times is that Mr. Tumulty set himself the wrong task. He is temperamentally unfitted for the role of historian, and as for his autobiographical work, it is a mere record of the past, and more than that, the time has not come to deal intelligently and finally with the public career of Mr. Wilson. When the time does come, the skill and impartiality of a trained historian will have to be called into service.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

Dec. 6, 1881—"Passion's Slave" written by John A. Stevens, who appears in the leading role, will be presented at the Myers theater tonight. A large number of the publishers of Rev. Dr. Hodges surprised him and Mrs. Hodges last night. They have received a call to another city and will leave in the next two weeks.
A purse was presented as a gift.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Dec. 6, 1891.—Sunday.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Dec. 6, 1901.—The grain market in Chicago is booming and many who were being sympatized with two weeks ago are now reaping fortunes. Wheat is at 80 cents, the highest it has ever been and corn is near 70 cents.—The annual session of Rock County teachers was held at the high school today. Rhuggens were served with an elaborate dinner at noon.

TEN YEARS AGO

Dec. 6, 1911.—The regent of China, with the powers of emperor, abdicated today as a result of the revolution which is still raging there.— Actual construction on the new steel bridge which is to span Rock river at Fourth avenue was started this morning with the laying of ten tubular pipes on the east side of the river.

WHITE COLLAR EXERCISES

On a card issued by the Chicago Athletic association I find this captivating suggestion regarding the necessary gymnasium exercises: Keep physically fit—
You do not remove your coat or collar—no fatigue—no perspiration—Personally directed by physical doctors.

"This is great. Just the thing the tired, that is to say, busy business man has been waiting for. Exercise without exertion, without sweat, is a spoon. How exciting it must be if one of the desk chair lizards makes a mistake and perspires a bit while going through the Delmaria movements of the vulgar fellow!"

Such an announcement, such a ladylike force might be all very well in a girls' high school somewhere east of the Hudson, presided over by a symmetrical old maid. To pretend that healthful exercises can be taken in a gymnasium as far west as Chicago by gentlemen wearing coats and collars without sweat is a little absurd.
Ridiculous for an athletic organization. Even the valetudinarians for a round of golf wear something a little less formal than what is worn if a man wants a little wholesome exercise and hasn't the time or nerve to remove his collar and coat and other restraining apparel, then he might as well sit down and read a book a few times or climb a few flights of stairs—something that will at least make him breathe a little harder. If it doesn't make him sweat, it is not likely to make him absorb. Not because sweating carries any considerable quantity of waste or poison out of the system.
The sweat glands of the kind, but because exercise which doesn't start the sweat is not likely to influence a man's metabolism appreciably. That is, it is not likely to make him absorb. Since there is not enough increase of oxidation or metabolism to warm the man up and call for the sweat, the sweat glands are not likely to be stimulated.

Just such a white collar and coat "exercise" is perpetuated on many a sufferer from the purpose of physical training, and doing the unfortunate the most harm.

The "idea" may be good for health, but it is in nature's path. If the laws or customs or environment make this impossible, then wear as little as possible and have the atmosphere as nearly at outdoor temperature as possible. An air bath is invaluable at all, but a salutary practice for the victim of superfluous clothing.

A man trying to make himself believe that he is taking healthful exercise with his coat and collar on is even a funnier spectacle than a woman pretending to take part in athletic work wearing a corset or brocade bodice.

Sweat, you auto intoxicated chair warmer, sweat by your own physical effort if you want to feel alive.

World-Acid Solution.

Please give me formulas for boric acid wash for eye wash and for mouth wash. (M. E. T.)

Answer—For either purpose dissolve as much boric acid as the desired quantity of freshly boiled water will take up and then some, so that a little remains as sediment when the solution becomes clear. This is a saturated solution of boric acid—or as the nurses say, "SSDA." The clear solution may be used for eye wash, mouth wash, or for other purposes where a mild, non-irritating, comparatively innocuous antiseptic is desired. It is not superior for any purpose for which an antiseptic solution may be required in the home.

liquid form or pills and how and where I can buy them as I want to reduce.

Please send me your direction for your system of reducing that I have variance to get satisfactory results.
(Mrs. E. H. M.)

Answer—It is in liquid form and can be bought ready to take. The victim has to use it up some to prepare it for consumption, that is, to reduce. It does require a good deal of exercise to get satisfactory results from the Kroll system, to be sure,

WATERTOWN HOME OF FAMED GEESSE

Wisconsin Locality Prepares Delicacy for Tables of World.

(Special to the Gazette.) Watertown—In a little region on the northern boundary of Jefferson county is located the center of the geese industry of the world.

Here are handled Christmas dinners that are sought as rare delicacies by leading chefs of all nations. The fame of Watertown geese is worldwide. The neighborhood is populated by German settlers, who brought with them into this country the practice of "mooching" geese. "Noddies" are delicacies raised by geese. They are about the size of sausages, with a secret mixture of cracked corn, barley and other grains, mixed with paste flour and water, put through a sausage press and then cooked in a double boiler. Several "noddies" are poked down the throats of the long-necked birds every day. Many of the birds are contracted for long before feeding begins. Geese weighing from 30 to 40 pounds are not uncommon. After the feeding period is over, the birds are killed and a "roose wedding" held, with the women and older children of the neighborhood gathering to pick the birds.

Cranner, who is in charge of the cow testing associations of the state was to be present and assist in the organization of the first county organization of cow testers of this state. Farmers Get Limestone

H. L. Anderson, Beloit, who has been visiting in the county during the past season near Lima, will operate in Walworth county. As soon as the weather is favorable he will have his trucks to the farm of William Wadke located about one and a half miles west of Richland Center. Field Secretary W. A. Foster of the Farm Bureau has instructed him in this county to make it an object for Mr. Anderson to move his crusher into this county. Orders for 200 tons of limestone will be given at a price of $2.15 per ton, which is a saving of just one dollar over the price of limestone which is shipped to Walworth.

400 Tons in Season

During the last season Mr. Anderson has crushed 400 tons of limestone which were bought by farmers living within short distances of his operations, who have taken the time to drive to his hauling from the quarry. This practice will be followed in this county and if other quarries can be located and the trucks moved to the farms, it is enough orders are forthcoming.

In Richmond Township the Farmers Get the Limestone at a Rate of Two to Three Tons per Acre

It is said that even on the so-called limestone hills the top soil is acid and need applications of lime. These knolls are often spotted with green and yellow. The more luxuriant growth where the roots of the alfalfa have struck the limestone in the subsoil. There is a great need for limestone in Walworth county.
